New Food Supply for England.

A former pest is now about to become of great value. At the present time, when any matter affecting the food supply of the United Kingdom is of special moment, it is interesting to learn that the Australian rabbit pest is now an important factor in the lists of foodstuffs arriving in the old country from the overseas dominions. Sir T. A. Coghlan, the agent general for New South Wales, states that within the last fortnight four ships arriving from New South Wales have unloaded at London 574,236 frozen rabbits from that state. All the consignments came to hand in excellent condition.

Higher Duty for Chaplain.

Representative Denis O'Leary of New York simply can't get himself accustomed or hardened to the amount of time devoted to talk in congress.

Nearly every day he looks into the chamber, shakes his head sadly and walks back to his office. "If I were the chaplain," he remarked one day shortly after he first came to congress, "I would quit praying for the members of congress and pray for the country."

LITTLE BOY WEAK AND SICKLY

Mother Tells How Her Little Son Was Made a Strong, Healthy Boy by Vinol After a Severe Sickness.

New York City.—"About five years ago my little boy, then seven years old, was very ill with gastritis, then he contracted measles from the other children, pneumonia soon followed, and there seemed no hope of saving his life. However, we fought off the disease and he recovered, but was in a very weak and delicate condition.

"The doctor prescribed cod liver oil, but his little stomach swelled up like a drum, and the doctor said there was no cure for him. I decided to try Vinol, as I had used it myself with splendid results, and it seemed to agree with him. That bloated condition soon disappeared, and now he is a strong, healthy boy, thanks to Vinol."—Mrs. THOMAS FITZGERALD, 1090 Park Ave., New York City.

In all cases where the healing, curative, tissue building influence of cod liver oil, or the strength-creating, blood-making properties of tonic iron are needed, Vinol gives immediate benefit, for it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach, because it contains no oil or grease, and tastes delicious.

TRAINING BOYS FOR WARFARE

Youth of Australia, From an Early Age, Undergo a Compulsory Military Service.

Australian lads of twelve years begin a more or less voluntary form of military training. It is an indulgent, happy-go-lucky sort of thing, designed primarily to be of physical advantage. When the lads are fourteen years old, a limited military service is severely compulsory, with penalties for evasion, and fines laid upon employers and parents who interfere, and thus continues, with physical exercises, drill, parades, and rifle practice, for four years, whereupon these cadets are passed into the citizen forces. Four whole-day drills are required each year, and 12 half-day drills and 24 night drills. A perfunctory attendance upon these grave obligations—inapt, sullen, frivolous behavior—counts for nothing at all. If the cadet fails to be marked efficient by his battalion officers he must perform his service all over again. In Kalgoolie of western Australia—a great dust storm blowing that night—we watched a column of these "little conscripts" march past with rifles and bugles and drums; and they were smart to see—brown uniforms, with tricks of green, and wide-brimmed Australian hats caught up at the side in the Australian way. It is no farcical affair. When we were in Brisbane of Queensland, a score of truant youngsters were packed off to the military barracks for ten days of close confinement and drill; and away they went, in a big cage wagon, in charge of a sergeant major, and under escort of some brilliant artillerymen—a melancholy little crew, these truants, then, facing ten days of absence from home, with six hours of drill on the hot parade-ground, under a sergeant major, who doubtless knew how to improve the patriotism of small culprits, and would do it with a switch—Norman Duncan, in Harper's Magazine.

KENTUCKY MOUNTAINS ARE CHANGING FAST.

The region of when John Fox, Jr., of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" fame, and other novelists wrote, is changing and changing fast. In the years which have elapsed since these literary lights discovered the Kentucky mountains and their inhabitants, the mountaineer of fiction has become to many a stereotyped quantity.

Commerce and industrial development have changed the mountaineer and the mountain.

With the development of the great natural resources of coal, timber and minerals, there has not only come an influx of outsiders who have changed the complexion of things, but the characteristics of the typical mountaineers themselves are undergoing a change, and it is a change for the better. The mountain end of the state of Kentucky is going to be more—it is going to be an intelligent, God-fearing section of the state.

Way up in the very heart of the Cumberland Mountains there are now working representatives of the Fourth Estate and their weeklies and semi-weeklies are urging their readers in all earnestness and not to allow in their midst anything which would degrade and demoralize their hospitable homes.

In fact, even now, the mountain counties are regulating affairs more strictly than the cities of Kentucky, and neither pull nor money protects the willful evil doers from the consequences of his acts.

A new era has begun for the people of the mountains, an era of which no imaginative novelist every dreamed, an era which promises a square deal for the mountaineers and their much misunderstood good qualities.—Beaumont (Texas) Journal.

HIGH SCHOOL BENEFIT

Great Preparations Being Made to Make Event at Mayslick Thanksgiving Day a Huge Success.

Preparations for the annual "High School Benefit" Thanksgiving Day at Mayslick displays even a greater spirit of community interest this year as daily grows the realization of the many benefits and blessings derived from our peaceful, prosperous nation, its rich and county, and the wise and learned leaders thereof. Perhaps only the mothers, wives and loved ones who sent their men to the battle front in our own civil war can give thanks with a full understanding of what it means in the midst of war and rumors of war to have our land at peace and its fireside circles unbroken by the horrors, sorrows and suffering of needless bloodshed and butchery. For four years the good people of the Mayslick consolidated districts have gathered each Thanksgiving Day and co-operated with principal and teachers in a democratic spirit of social and financial success, for the upbuilding of their school as a social and educational center and with the object of a higher civilization for sons and daughters at heart.

The usual program will be observed and solicitors report even larger donations, from well-filled larders and beautiful handiwork from the homes of this prosperous cultured community.

The dinner, always an abundant, appetizing success, will be bountifully served under the direction of Mrs. S. M. Roff, Mrs. C. C. Arthur, Mrs. Lee Fox, Miss Josie Layham, Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. Jack Finch, Mrs. William Ball, Mrs. Charles Parry, Mrs. Dix, Miss Olive Galbraith, Mrs. T. C. Hopper, a corps of competent assistants and a bevy of charming young ladies as waitresses. Mrs. Charles Collins, Miss Myra Myall and assistants will have charge of the bazaar, which boasts quite a handsome collection of beautiful handwork and useful articles of all kinds and descriptions.

The "country produce" department will be under the charge of Mrs. John O'Malley and assistants, and will be well stocked with fresh eggs, butter, dressed poultry, apples and cakes.

The "candy table," one of the daintiest attractions on the program, will be presided over by Mrs. Will Kaehley and Miss Glenn Arthur, with a coterie of fair guests as assistants.

The proceeds derived from this year's program go toward school furnishing, the handsome "rest room" being one of the results of last year's expenditure.

The officers of the committee on arrangement are Mrs. Charles Parry, president; Mrs. William Galbraith, vice president; Mrs. Lee Fox, secretary; Mrs. S. M. Roff, treasurer; Mrs. Will Kaehley, correspondent; with practically every lady and gentleman in the community as interested patrons and co-workers.

The afternoon will be devoted to true Kentucky hospitality, in social intercourse and mutual interests.

A basketball game will be one attraction of the afternoon, and two interesting and laughable plays, one a juvenile fantasy, under the direction of Miss Loreen Spencer, at 3 o'clock, the other a comedy, entitled "Hearts and Diamonds," by the High School pupils, coached by Miss Sara Lewis, given in the evening; both of which will merit a large and appreciative audience.

Prof. Dix, the popular principal, also announces a very entertaining play for Saturday evening under his supervision, the object being not to crowd the Thanksgiving program.

Let the public unite in attending this Thanksgiving reunion, enjoy a real old-fashioned, bountiful well cooked, well served dinner for the small admission of 25 cents; the basketball game and plays at a small admission and the respect and general friendship of the community at large.

HEALTH LEAGUE

Appeals to the Public For Financial Help—Shall This Noble Endeavor Cease For Want of Money?

Conservation is the watchword of the nation. The government is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to protect the national resources of the nation, but what is being done to conserve the greatest national asset—human health? Comparatively little, and the major portion of that is done by individuals who have taken up the work through philanthropic motives.

We have in our city an organization that is doing more to conserve the health of the town and county and relieve suffering than any organization that has ever existed in our community. The question is, shall it continue or shall it die for want of funds to provide for its existence?

It has been conducted more economically than anything of the kind that has heretofore been conducted here and the good work it has done can not be measured. The Mason County Public Health League is referred to and it is surprising to think that with the vast amount of good it has done and can continue to do that such a strenuous effort should be necessary to continue its existence.

Last summer, during the scarlet fever epidemic, through services rendered by the League's nurse, Miss Casey, we were spared the terrible results that many times accompany such epidemics and the city was saved a great deal of money, but there now seems to be a question about whether or not our city council will give any assistance for the coming year, notwithstanding that without the Health League the city is without any organization or any designated person on whom a poor sick person can call and have reason to expect their sufferings to be alleviated. Is it right to permit this organization to die?

It needs help right now. It needs men and money.

What say Maysville citizens?

FAMILY NAG TRAINED

To Perform Chores—Goes With Buggy From Jennings Home to Higginsport Without Aid of Driver.

(Georgetown (O.) News-Democrat.)

Mart Jennings owns a horse that is attracting attention of the people in the lower part of the county. The Jennings home is on the river hill back of Higginsport. Mr. Jennings was injured a few years since and has only partial use of his hands. This caused him to set about to train this horse to do the trading for the home and Higginsport. In the morning the horse is hitched to the buggy and his daughter drives to school in town. When she arrives she ties the lines to the buggy bed and the horse starts back home. In the evening it is hitched up and sent after the daughter and there is never a mishap. Besides this, when the Jennings family is in need of anything a note is placed in the buggy and the horse started to town. In a short while it will return with what is needed. A well known citizen tells of being there last week and seeing the animal sent to Higginsport for two sacks of cement. In a short time it returned with the needed cement. Mr. Jennings has trained it to such a point that it is attending to all such chores without the aid of anyone.

SISTER EUPHRASIA'S

Fifty Years' Work Will Be Observed at Lexington Next Saturday When Honor Will Be Paid This Consecrated Woman.

(Lexington Leader.)
The Jubilee of Sister Euphrasia, Superior-in-charge of St. Joseph's hospital, will take place at the hospital on Saturday next.

This jubilee will mark the fiftieth anniversary of Sister Euphrasia's assuming the habit and taking the vows in the Sisters of Charity at Nazareth, and which was the beginning of a career which has been no less remarkable for the growth of spiritual graces than for the demonstration of marked executive ability and business courage.

For thirty-seven years Sister Euphrasia has guided the affairs of St. Joseph's hospital and the jubilee has attracted the interest of the innumerable friends which in the course of a half century she has won by the force of her wonderful personality. The jubilee is being planned by the Sisters at the hospital, and by the St. Joseph Aid Society, composed of Lexington women who are communicants of St. Paul's or St. Peter's church.

Mother Rose (the Mother Superior of the convent at Nazareth), is planning to attend the jubilee, with her assistant, Sister Mary Ignatius. Among the other visitors will be Sister Columba, Superior of the La Salle school at Covington, and Father Brossart, Vicar General of the Covington Diocese, he representing Bishop Maes.

Father Brossart was formerly located in Lexington, and Sister Mary Ignatius and Sister Columba are sisters of M. J. Fox of this city.

St. Catherine's Academy of Lexington is in charge of members of the same sisterhood of which Sister Euphrasia is so distinguished a member, and the jubilee promises to be one of the most notable events in which the people of Lexington have joined with the Sisters of Charity.

NORTH CAROLINA LOOSE LEAF

Sales Show Increase Over the Past Two Years—Forty-Seven Markets in State Selling Tobacco—Kinston Leads With Large Gain.

(Western Tobacco Journal.)

The loose leaf tobacco sales on the markets of North Carolina the past month, as tabulated by the Western Tobacco Journal from the monthly report issued by Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. Graham, show a large increase over the preceding month, and favorable gains over the corresponding months the two years previous. October, 1914, sales totaled 62,901,881 pounds, against 58,752,605 pounds in October, 1913, and 35,224,279 in October, 1912. The increase in the first comparison is 4,149,276 pounds or 7 per cent, and in the second, 27,677,602 pounds, or 73 per cent. Contrasted with September, 1914, last month made a gain of 31,016,949 pounds, or 100 per cent.

There were forty-seven separate markets selling tobacco in the state in October, while a year ago there were but thirty-six. Fairbluff, Pink Hill and Leaksville, all of which sold tobacco last season, have not yet opened up for the season of 1914, while the new markets which have opened this year are New Bern, Elkin, Spring Hope, Clinton, Varina and Mount Olive.

The tobacco sold in October, 1914, was divided as follows: For producers at first hand, 57,064,300 pounds; for dealers, 2,599,858, and the resales amounted to 3,237,723 pounds. Corresponding figures for the same month last year were 54,133,851 pounds, 2,421,032 and 2,777,722. Thus, increases are shown for the past month of 2,930,449 pounds, 178,826 pounds, and 1,060,001 pounds, respectively.
